BUSINESS CLUB HOLDS MONTHLY MEET THURSDAY

Committees Report on Preparations Made For Future Programs.

SKILL NIGHTS ARE ANNOUNCED

Thirty members of the Business and Professional women's club were in attendance at the monthly business meeting held at the Y. W. C. A. Thursday evening at 8:30 o'clock. Mrs. Howard Kitzmiller and Miss Eleanor Shealer served as pages. Mrs. Harry Hance gave the treasurer's report.

The club voted to pay the second half of their $100 pledge to the Y. W. C. A. and $5 was authorized to be forwarded to the foreign division of the national organization for world fellowship work. Miss Myrtle Stouffer reported on the Christmas dinner which will be held December 10. Mrs. Harold Cromwell gave details of the annual St. Nicholas party for under-privileged children which will be held on December 17. Members who desire the names of children to bring may secure them from the committee. Miss Anne Deardorff reported on the watch night party to be held December 31.

Committee Reports
Papers appointed to serve for the month of January are Miss Mary Scott and Miss Clara Weaver.

Reports of standing committees were given by their respective chairman. Upon the recommendation of Miss Carolyn Rupp, chairman of the membership committee, Mrs. William Swisher, who has recently moved to Hanover, was changed from the active to the associate list. Miss Esther Tipton, chairman of the service committee, reported on cards and flowers sent to the sick and advised that two needy families were given help. Mrs. Harold Cromwell was appointed an additional member of the public affairs committee. In the absence of the chairman of the finance committee Miss Myrtle Stouffer read the report. Miss Nan Eicholtz reported on the activities of the ways and means committee. The next activity will be the serving of a turkey dinner to a local group this month.

Plan Skill Nights
Miss Maude Whiteleather requested the cooperation of the club with the Girl Reserves in their ceremony of the hanging of the greens to be held on Sunday, December 13, at the Y. W. C. A.

The quarterly program as set up by the cabinet was presented for approval and was unanimously adopted. A series of monthly skill nights, comprising bowling, basketry, first aid and art, will be conducted during the winter months. The January supper will be a twelfth night supper and in February a cabaret supper will feature. The March supper will be conducted as the mad March hare supper. A feature of the next quarter will be a tenth birthday celebration of the club to be held in February with appropriate festivities.

At the close of the business meeting coffee and cake were served, with Miss Esther Tipton, Mrs. John Pape and Mrs. Ray Kitzmiller presiding at the coffee table.

Special Yuletide Service on Sunday

The annual service of Christmas hymns will be held at Trinity Evangelical Reformed church Sunday at the Vesper hour. The Rev. Howard S. Fox will have for his message a Christmas hymn sermon, "The Birth of Christ." It will be divided into eight parts as follows: The Town, the Night, the Star Dust, the Time, the Shepherds, the Angels Song, the Manger and the Call to Worship. Under each section a hymn appropriate for the Christmas season will be sung. The young people's choir will render the anthem "O Come to My Heart, Lord Jesus" and sing the Christmas carol "There's a Song in the Air." The junior choir will sing the Christmas carol "Away in a Manger."

This service is the first in the series of special Christmas services which will be held during the Advent Season on Sunday evenings.

HOSPITAL REPORT

Mrs. Annie Hummer, Gettysburg R. D., has been admitted to the Annie M. Warner hospital. Mrs. Luther Creager, East Middle street, and her infant, son, Raymond Eugene; and Carrie Barnes, Cumberland township, were discharged.

Scout Meeting Is Held at College Y

The fifth of a series of seven meetings for instruction in scout-mastership was conducted Thursday evening at the college Y. M. C. A. with 34 scout leaders from the York-Adams area in attendance. Charles W. Beachem, alumni secretary at the college, discussed "Ceremonies in the Scout Program" and Dr. Thomas L. Cline, a member of the college faculty, spoke on "The Boys' Reading Program."

The class will meet again at the same place next Thursday. The final session will be held Thursday, December 17.

BUSINESS AT POST OFFICE ON INCREASE

November Receipts This Year Exceed Those of '35 Says Postmaster.

GAIN UP TO 20 PER CENT

Records at the Gettysburg post-office for the month of November show an increase of from 10 to 20 per cent in the volume of business handled over the figures for the same month of 1935.

General postal receipts, including monies received through the sale of stamps, postals, envelopes, etc., show an increase of 19.7 per cent over November of last year.

The money order department reports an increase of 10 per cent in the number of orders handled this November over the figure for the same period last year. The amount of money covered by these orders increased by about 14 per cent.

Postmaster C. A. Williams reports a steadily increasing volume of business at the local office this month. Indications that the Christmas rush is starting is seen in the mounting number of money orders being sold and in the greater amount of first class matter being handled daily by local clerks.

Parcel Post Gains

The greatest increase has been in the number of packages and parcels post that are being dispatched and received through the local office. The increase in the amount of mail matter to be handled has made it necessary to make use of several substitutes at the office this week while one regular carrier and a regular clerk are on vacations. It is expected that the rush of work will make it necessary for the substitutes to continue until the holidays.

Postmaster Williams issued an appeal to patrons of the office to assist employees there by wrapping all packages securely and addressing them clearly, giving the complete address of the person to receive the parcel. Patrons are asked also to place a return address on the packages.

The postmaster concluded with the familiar request to "mail early."

BIGLER CLUB HOLDS SUPPER

Peter Pan Dramatic Players Guests at Supper and Theatre Party.

The Peter Pan players dramatic club of Biglerville high school held its November meeting in the form of a supper and theatre party Thursday evening. Fifteen members were in attendance.

Immediately after the close of school the group motored to the woods near the Troxel farm on the Fairfield road where informal initiation was held for Jane Walters, Josephine Black, Rosanna Gulden, Bruce Nary and Kenneth Stine, all members of the cast of the play "Tiger House" recently staged by the players. At the Troxel lodge a supper followed the initiation. Candle light and decorations of the Yuletide season created the setting for the occasion.

At the business meeting plans were made for a marionette show to be staged some time in March and April 1 and 2 were selected as dates for the presentation of the spring play. The annual Christmas banquet will be held at the Biglerville hotel on Wednesday, December 30. After the business meeting Eleanor Dill spoke briefly on dramatics as a social and personal aid and the initiates presented a short play.

The party was concluded by a theatre party who witnessed "The Scarlet Pimpernel" at the Strand theatre.

Those present at the affair in addition to the new members were: Eleanor Dill, Josephine Howe, Stanley Sheely, Mae Baumgardner, Betty Routsong, Wallace Coddington, Nancy Dill, Helen Baker, Mary Enck, Richard Fohl and Miss Jessica Weaver, sponsor of the club.

Fletchers Buy Newport Residence

Henry P. Fletcher, former chairman of the national republican committee, has purchased "Faxon Lodge," one of the older residences in Newport, Rhode Island, from the Frank K. Sturges estate. Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher will make "Faxon Lodge" their permanent residence, but will return to Greencastle, near Chambersburg, his home town, from time to time as in the past.

Many Vets of War of '61 Live in Foreign Countries

A number of surviving veterans of the war between the states who served with the Army of the Potomac are residing in foreign countries, according to Senator John S. Rice, chairman of the Pennsylvania state commission, making preparations for the 1938 program here.

Senator Rice said that the Commission headquarters staff is sending out questionnaires to all surviving veterans of the war, North and South, in an effort to determine how many veterans will attend the reunion in 1938. This is done, Senator Rice said, to permit the Commission to prepare its budget for submission to the regular session of the state legislature early in January.

More than 10,000 questionnaires will be in the mails before December 10, Senator Rice said.

Some of the veterans who reside in foreign countries include:

Daniel J. Seyler, 284 Court street, North, Port Arthur, Ontario, Canada; Charles F. Sulzberger, Baritz street, 21, Weisser Hirsch, Sax-

Germany; John Knowlton, 98 Empress Crescent, Toronto, Ontario, Canada; William L. Scott, Clarenceville, Quebec, Canada; John Housley, 25 June avenue, Newbourn road, Marton Blackpool, Lancashire, England; David J. Meacher, 296 Charlton avenue west, Hamilton, Ontario, Canada; Frederick Seyfarth, Rua Ramiro Barcellos 370, Porto Alegre, Brazil, South America; Peter J. Diemer, 381 Prince Albert avenue, Westmount, Quebec, Canada; George W. Green, Waterloo Cottage, North Marine road, Flamboro, East Yorkshire, England; James W. Wallace, Ponaka, Alberta, Canada; Julius W. H. H. Spindler, Oberster 2 Saalfeld Am, Saale, Saxe, Mueingen, Germany.

Every surviving veteran, regardless of where he lives or how long he fought in the four-year war, 73 years ago, will receive a questionnaire which he is asked to fill out and return to the Commission from which that portion of the Commission program dealing with the reunion will be drafted.

TO FORM ADULT GROUP, MONDAY

Miss Mary Louise Bradstock To Organize Extension Unit in York Springs.

An adult extension group will be organized at York Springs at a meeting at the home of Mrs. Calvin Leer Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock under the direction of Miss Mary Louise Bradstock, home economics extension representative for Adams county. Two demonstrations on the making of Christmas cookies and a meeting of a 4-H club also are on the schedule for next week announced today by Miss Bradstock.

Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock a cookie demonstration meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Walter Frederick at Arendtsville and a similar gathering is to be held Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. David March at Table Rock.

Next Friday afternoon Miss Bradstock will make home visits in the county and at 7 o'clock in the evening will attend the mid-winter meeting of the 4-H garment club at the home of Mrs. U. S. Klinefelter, Biglerville.

Miss Bradstock announces that she will be in her office in the court house next Saturday morning.

Property Transfers

Among property transfers recorded today at the office of the register and recorder was that conveying title to a Main street, McSherrytown, property from Paul Hoffens, executor of the will of the late Annie E. Small, McSherrytown, to Paul W. and Alice A. Topper, McSherrytown.

PREMIER BALDWIN

His Government And His King . . .

The Right Honourable Stanley Baldwin, Prime Minister and First Lord of the Treasury, told the House of Commons "there does not at present exist any constitutional difficulty. The situation is of such a nature as to make it inexpedient that I should be questioned about it at this stage." He mentioned neither the King nor Mrs. Simpson. (Associated Press Photo)

Local Men Attend Initiation Rites

Five local men attended initiation exercises at Hanover Thursday evening when nine new members were inducted into Washington camp, No. 348, Patriotic Order Sons of America. Loses 3 Fingers In a Cornhusker Jacob W. Kitzmiller, East Berlin R. 1, is minus three fingers on his right hand the result of getting his hand caught between two rollers of a cornhusker and shredder. In some manner, which Mr. Kitzmiller is not able to explain, his hand was caught in the machinery while he was helping to operate the machine on a farm near Five Points for his employer, George Anderson. He was taken to the office of Dr. Stoner at York Springs, who dressed the injuries.

Howard H. Wallace, East Berlin Route 1, near Aspers school house, is confined to his bed as the result of a stroke suffered several weeks ago.

County Hunters Bag 8-Point Deer

The Old Arendtsville hunting camp bagged its first deer of the season in a drive Thursday afternoon. There are 15 members in the camp which is located along the Caledonia-Pine Grove Furnace highway, in the Beamer field. The deer was an eight pointer and weighed 160 pounds. The kill was made by Joe Hall. The report was given to The Gettysburg Times by William N. Hartman, an Adams county director of the poor, who is a member of the camp and who participated in the successful drive.

FRANK M. MOORE ELECTED HEAD OF PAST GRANDS

E. R. Sentz, Littlestown, and Oscar A. Lupp, Gettysburg, Re-Elected.

MEETING HELD IN YORK SPRINGS

Frank M. Moore, recording secretary of Valley Home lodge of Fairfield, was elected president of the Past grands association of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of Adams county at the December meeting of the organization Thursday evening at York Springs. Mr. Moore succeeds C. D. Bream, of Montana lodge, Bendersville, who has been president for the last year.

E. R. Sentz, Littlestown, who has attended 69 of the 70 meetings held by the association since its formation seven years ago, was re-elected secretary. He has held that office since the association was organized. Oscar A. Lupp, York street, a member of Gettys lodge, No. 124, Gettysburg, was re-elected treasurer for his eighth consecutive term.

Vice presidents were named from each of the lodges of the county as follows: John D. Stallsmith, from York Springs lodge, of York Springs; John H. Leas, from Sylvania lodge, of Littlestown; Edward Newman, from Valley Home lodge of Fairfield; Ralph Wiernan, from Gettys lodge of Gettysburg, and Roy Sterner, from Montana lodge at Bendersville.

The new staff of officers will serve for one year and will begin their duties at the next regular session of the association which will be held at Bendersville, Friday, January 8.

Retiring President Bream presided at the meeting Thursday evening with 65 persons in attendance. The group included representatives of the lodges in Bendersville, Littlestown, Gettysburg and York Springs. Fairfield was not represented.

The address of welcome was given by E. S. Guise, York Springs, and was responded to by Carl Prosser, also of York Springs. A program of vocal and instrumental music was presented during the evening by York Springs high school pupils.

LOCAL CONVICT ASKS A PARDON

One of Trio Who Robbed Fairfield Garage Seeks Release From Prison.

Boyd Ellsworth Hall, Camp Hill, who is serving a sentence of from one and a half to three years for his part in the robbery of the Hiner garage at Fairfield last January 15, has applied to the state board of pardons for a pardon.

Hall, Glenn D. Carter and George Miltonberger, all of near Harrisburg, were arrested in March in Harrisburg by state police for the Fairfield robbery. Carter and Miltonberger were implicated on several charges of breaking and entering and larceny in Cumberland and Dauphin counties and stood court trials there.

Hall was brought here and signed a plea of guilty to a charge of breaking and entering and larceny at the Hiner garage. On May 2, he was sentenced by Judge Sheely. Sent to the Eastern penitentiary a few days later, he was removed to Rockview penitentiary on August 14, where he remains a prisoner.

His application for a pardon is to be heard by the state board at a regular session, Thursday, December 17, at 9 o'clock in the morning in the supreme court room at Harrisburg.

Hall admitted that he and Carter and Miltonberger had broken into the Fairfield business place the night of January 15 and escaped with loot valued at $1,400. They took a new Plymouth sedan, radios, drills, adding machines and auto accessories. The car and most of the other articles were recovered by the police.

SEEK $558 IN GETTYSBURG FOR SCOUT PROGRAM

Dinner Meeting Thursday Evening Launches Annual Drive for Funds.

BUDGET FOR TWO COUNTIES FIXED

The annual campaign for funds with which to finance the Boy Scout program in Gettysburg was launched at a dinner meeting of scout leaders and more than a score of local men who will assist in the canvass for $558 — Gettysburg's share of the $10,881 to be raised for Boy Scout work in the York-Adams area. The meeting was held at the Blue Parrot tea room at 6 o'clock, with Dr. William C. Waltemyer, chairman of the Gettysburg district committee, presiding.

The dinner launched the campaign for financial support of the 1937 scouting program here. The canvass will be completed within one week. Subscriptions will be asked of approximately 300 citizens and organizations in Gettysburg. The solicitors will seek cash donations or pledges for funds that will be payable February 1 or June 1.

Urges Cooperation

In a brief address Dean W. E. Tilberg, president of the York-Adams area council, emphasized the importance of the scout program to boys of the community and urged cooperation in the appeal for funds to continue scouting activities here.

All funds raised here will be sent to area headquarters at York, it was explained. Administration and supervision of scout work in York and Adams counties, secretarial work done in York, and scout records and advancements are kept on file in the area office.

The money to be raised here will be used to share the cost of supplies for scouting activities, administrative and secretarial expenses and the cost of operating summer scout camps at Ganoga and Cone-wago.

Present At Dinner

Those who attended the dinner and will assist in the canvass are: Charles W. Beachem, Professor G. W. Lefever, Dr. G. C. Bassett, Professor George R. Larkin, Dean Tilberg, Dr. Thomas L. Cline, Major George Abrams, Norman Storrick, Melchior Sheads, Dr. Robert Fortenbaugh, Nelson Ross, George Forney, Dr. M. Hadwin Fischer, Henry T. Bream, Dr. Rasmus S. Baby, Franklin R. Bigham, Esq., George H. Naylor, Dr. John G. Glenn, Professor L. O. Johnson, Lloyd R. Hartman, Sergeant James Mashburn, John Black, Robert Berkheimer, Russell Gilbert and Doctor Waltemyer.

Dr. George R. Miller, Roy W. Wentz and D. Walker Woods were unable to attend the dinner, but will assist with the canvass.

Of the $10,881 to be raised in the area, York has been given $6,500 as its quota; Hanover, $1,180; Red Lion, $475; and the remainder will be raised in scattered sections of the district.

Oldest Resident Of East Berlin Ill

Mrs. Lydia Rebert, the oldest resident of East Berlin, is confined to her bed by illness. Mrs. Rebert suffered a stroke several years ago from which she was bedfast for over two years, but the past summer and fall she had recovered sufficiently to be about at short intervals. She was able to enjoy a turkey dinner at the table on Sunday when Mr. and Mrs. Luther Lau and Mr. and Mrs. John Leib and family were entertained at dinner. Both men are nephews of Mrs. Rebert.

Pays $14 Fine for Pin Ball Machine

H. W. Shutz, proprietor of the Cross Keys Inn, east of New Oxford, appeared before Justice of the Peace John C. Shealer Thursday afternoon and paid a fine of $14 and costs for maintaining gambling devices. Shutz paid the fine a few hours after state police had confiscated a five-cent pin ball machine at his place of business.

An information has been laid before Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore by Corporal John H. Herman of the local substation of the state police against George L. Shetter, East Berlin restaurant proprietor, on a similar charge. State police seized a pin ball machine at Shetter's place of business Thursday afternoon. The East Berlin man is to appear before the local justice next Thursday.

KING EDWARD PLANS TO KEEP THRONE, WALLY

England's Monarch Reported Defiant in Face of Premier's Ultimatum.

London, Dec. 4 (AP).—Britain's King, confronted with an ultimatum to give up his throne or the American-born Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson, stood firm Thursday night in his decision to retain both.

Twice closeted with Queen Mary, before and after a 50-minute argument with Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, the strong-willed monarch gave the empire one of the most anxious days in the history of the British throne.

Baldwin emerged grave-faced from Buckingham palace Thursday night and went immediately into conference with leaders of the House of Commons. Since the Commons was adjourned, there was no possibility of Baldwin making a statement to the members of Parliament Thursday night.

Confers With Mother Second Time
The King hurried back for a second meeting with the Queen Mother, presumably having told her of his determination to hold both his throne and Mrs. Simpson when he hastened from Port Belvedere, where Mrs. Simpson remained.

Baldwin earlier in the day told the House of Commons he "had no statement to make" on persistent reports he told the monarch he would resign unless Edward terminated his association with Mrs. Simpson.

King's Brothers Hold Long Conference

The King's three brothers, the royal Dukes of York, Gloucester and Kent, held a long consultation in York's Pleadilly residence late Thursday night.

The royal family at the same time canceled all public engagements—traditional procedure when any crisis involves internal British affairs.

A court circular announced that Edward, after seeking the counsel of his conservative mother the first time, did not remain to dine, but that the Duke and Duchess of York, next in line to the throne, stayed on.

For Baldwin, plainly showing the strain of the crisis, Edward was reversing his final word on whether he would give up Mrs. Simpson or his throne—a decision understood to have been pressed on him by the Prime Minister with no alternative.

Seeks Dominion's Stand
After their conference, the second in two days and the third in one week, it was expected Baldwin would consult with dominion representatives and then go before Parliament to lay his cards on the table.

Wally, King And Baldwin Still at Odds

London, Dec. 4 (AP).—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin gravely announced to the house of commons today the government flatly refused to yield to King Edward's suggested compromise to enable him to marry Wallis Warfield Simpson and keep the throne.

Baldwin said Edward's marriage to Mrs. Simpson automatically would make her queen unless there was special legislation, which the government refused to introduce.

This constitutional change, he added, also would require the consent of all the Dominions and, "I am satisfied from inquiries I have made that this consent would not be forthcoming."

A compromise, by which Mrs. Simpson could marry Edward VIII, but not become queen would be unconstitutional, the prime minister told a tense, crowded parliament.

"There is no such thing as what is called a morganatic marriage known to our law," he asserted.

The only possible solution would be a special act by parliament of the Dominions to consent to Edward's marriage and permit his wife to become his consort.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Simpson was in France headed for an undisclosed destination. She left England in cognito last night by boat.

Hanover Minister Preaches Tonight In Local Church

The Rev. Dr. A. Lawrence Miller, of Hanover, former district superintendent, will deliver the preaching sermon in the Methodist Episcopal church auditorium this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

On Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock the newly organized York-Adams county Methodist ministerium will meet at the local church. Fifteen ministers, of which the Rev. E. C. Myers, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, York, is president, comprise the group. A large attendance of members and their wives is expected Monday.

DOCTOR ASKS RANDLE DATA

Massachusetts Physician Seeks Details of Woman's Activities Here.

Burgess Wilbur J. Stallsmith has received a request for information on Mrs. Helen Gertrude Randle, who conducted health classes here three years ago and left the community suddenly while she was being sought by Dauphin county authorities. The query comes from Dr. Oscar S. Simpson, a physician residing at Falmouth, Mass.

The letter which was received here from Dr. Simpson follows:
Chief of Police, Gettysburg, Pa.
Dear Sir:

Have you any information which you can give me concerning one Mrs. Helen G. Randle, who has come to this town supposedly to operate a sun and diet health camp. She is involved in a legal action concerning the illegal practice of medicine.

Yours truly,
Oscar S. Simpson, M.D.

Held for Jury

Wareham, Mass., Dec. 4 (AP).—Mrs. Helen G. Randle, 58, dietitian and lecturer of North Carolina, Florida and Washington, D. C., was held Thursday for the grand jury on charges she illegally practiced medicine.

The operator of a health and diet institute in Falmouth, Mrs. Randle denied she ever represented herself as a physician, prescribed medicine or made diagnoses. She furnished $1,000 bail.

One witness, Mrs. Alice M. Woodworth, said Mrs. Randle told her a test showed her suffering from anemia and kidney trouble and that a prescribed diet cost $25. No medicine was ordered, Mrs. Woodworth added.

BOND FILED

The administration bond in the estate of Mrs. Ida F. Heller, late of Huntington township, was filed today at the office of the register and recorder by Fred Heller, Tyrone township, and Harvey Heller, Huntington township, the administrators. The estate is valued at $540.

MANY SECURITY FORMS UNFILED

Two-Thirds of Applications Not Recorded, Post Office Official Asserts.

With only one day remaining before the deadline for the return of employees' applications for account numbers under the provision of the social security act about two-thirds of the applications distributed through the local post office 10 days ago have not been received at the post office.

Saturday is the final day for filing the completed application forms at the post office, Richard Brown, who is in charge of the information bureau that has been set up for the handling of the applications at the office of Postmaster C. A. Williams, estimates that about 1,000 forms will be on file by 5 o'clock this afternoon when his office closes for the day. About 3,000 were distributed here.

Asks Prompt Return

Mr. Brown today urged employers to request their employees to fill out and return the applications promptly to avoid later delay and inconvenience. When the social security act goes into effect January 1 it will be necessary for each employer to have a list of the account numbers of the persons on his pay roll, it was pointed out. Prompt filing will avoid confusion and delay in handling the cards at the security board office, it was stated.

Failure to fill out an application for the account number, it was emphasized, will not interfere with the collection of the tax from employers. The tax is general and compulsory and will be collected whether the employees and employer have complied with current requests or not, it was said.

An additional supply of 500 application forms have been received at the post office and are available there to persons who wish to fill them out. Unemployed persons are entitled to an account number.

Hint Murder in Trucker's Death

Sunbury, Pa., Dec. 4.—Testimony that Robert Everett, 30, a former Sunbury truck driver, was murdered, not accidentally killed, while his truck was being loaded with silk at the D. and G. Throwing Company plant at Watsonstown on Thursday, August 27, was introduced at a hearing here Thursday before Arthur H. Schragger, of Pottsville, Workmen's Compensation Board referee, at the court house.

At the time of the tragedy it was announced that while Everett, employed as a driver for the Arrow Carrier Corporation, was waiting at the loading platform at the Watsonstown mill his service revolver was accidentally discharged, the bullet hitting him above the belt buckle and penetrating his abdomen.

The insurance company, in its allegations presented to the referee, in contesting the petition of the truck driver's widow, Mrs. Esther Everett, hints that his death was "due to a third person for reasons personal."

LAWS SAVE DRUNKS FROM CASTOR OIL

Spokane, Wash., Dec. 4 (AP).—A legal opinion has shattered Police Judge Frank Yuse's plan to punish drunks with castor oil.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Louis Conyard, previously believed favorable to Yuse's plan, wrote: "The only lawful punishments that may be legally imposed are those provided by the ordinances of Spokane and the statutes of the state of Washington."

Certainly, Conyard said informally, the ordinances do not provide administration of a half-pint of castor oil, proposed by Yuse as optional with those who disliked jail sentences.

PRINCETON ALTERS PLAN OF ENTRANCE TESTS

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 4 (AP).—Princeton University, believed to be the last major university in the nation to require college entrance tests from every student, announced Thursday that a limited number of freshmen, possibly twenty-five, would be admitted yearly without examination.

"This new plan is in no way a lowering of the standards of admission to Princeton University," President Harold W. Dodds said in announcing the program.

"This new plan follows the trend of the past few years of making our entrance requirements more flexible, to the end that there will be no technical obstacles, hindering the selection of the best potential candidates from all over the country."

OPEN REVIVAL SERVICES

A series of revival services beginning Sunday evening will be held at the Mummaburg Mennonite church, conducted by the Rev. Elmer G. Martin, of Lancaster. The services will be held each evening for two weeks.

GEORGIA WOMAN GETS SENTENCE FOR KILLING

Abbeville, Ga., Dec. 4 (AP).—Christine Gordy, 36, was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to from four to six years' imprisonment Thursday for the killing of her brother-in-law, T. M. Dix.

Dix, operator of a general store in which Miss Gordy worked as a clerk, was shot to death while he slept at his home several months ago.

Miss Gordy said Dix forced attention upon her, cursed her when she treated men customers nice, flogged her with a bug whip and had threatened to kill her.

She made her statement from the witness stand under a Georgia law permitting a defendant to testify without submitting to cross-examination.

Dix's widow sat with prosecutors during the trial.

SAYS RAIDED N. Y. BRICK CONCERN RACKET

New York, Dec. 4 (AP).—Police of the staff of Thomas E. Dewey, special rackets prosecutor, raided all offices of the Ace Brick Corporation and twenty-three affiliated companies Thursday in what Dewey called an attempt to smash a $3,000,000-a-year racket.

The corporation is in the business of hauling away old bricks from demolished buildings and reselling them to contractors. All company books and records were seized and the firm's officers were called in for questioning.

Aides to Dewey alleged the company's operations cost the city alone $840,000 in the last fifteen months.

The Ace company began operations September 1, 1935. Twenty-three other companies in the field, Dewey aides alleged, were forced to subscribe to Ace stock, while ten independents who would not were forced out of business.

The ladies' Bible class No. 42, of St. James Lutheran Sunday school will hold a food sale Saturday morning at the bowling center.

$12 LOOT IN P.O. ROBBERY

Two Young Bandits Dare Federal Pursuit in Holdup of Federal Building.

Mt. Holly, N. J., Dec. 4 (AP).—Two young bandits dared federal pursuit Thursday by holding up the Hainespost postoffice and general store three miles from here.

In return for risking years in prison they got just $12 in cash, a book of money orders, certifying stamp and pad and a stamp cancellation machine.

Unmasked, the bandits strode into the postoffice.

"Give us a money order," one demanded of John C. Gauntt, 33, assistant postmaster. It was for $1 and was made out to "Walter Brice, of Newark."

"And now a pack of cigarettes," demanded the other.

Faces Muzzle of Gun

Gauntt, the only other person in the building turned to a shelf. When he came back with the cigarettes he looked into the muzzle of a revolver.

The bandits ordered him into a corner. "Don't say anything and we won't hurt you," one of them curtly advised.

Then they grabbed the money, the orders and postal equipment. As they were leaving a customer, Gus Brosius, 45, of Hainespost, arrived.

Third Man in Auto

Ordering him to keep quiet, the bandits hurried to a car, where an accomplice sat with the motor running, and then sped away on Marne road toward Camden.

Their car bore Burlington county license tags. Both men who entered the postoffice were of middle height and between 20 and 25. They wore light coats and hats and dark shirts.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

Marta Abba, the Italian actress now in her first season on Broadway and doesn't save them for the way, has a genius for bright phrases Dorothy Parkers of New York. She'll waste her newest and most impromptu observation on anybody within hearing.

Jack Pearl is a sincere person but he never talks in dialect off stage. He is extraordinarily superstitious. Conrad Nagel meets strangers as easily as he faces movie cameras. Carl Hubbell puts forward a shy, slow drawl, saying little but meaning what he does say. Babe Ruth is sincere in his anxiety not to be misunderstood.

Tallulah Bankhead is frank, generous, talkative. She can, and frequently does, keep three cigarettes with as many conversations going at the same time. No thought entering her head is turned away without expression.

Arturo Toscanini is eagerly sought by interviewers after each crossing because he contributes excellent copy. He has a pleasant way with strangers but does not encourage aimless conversation.

Then there's Jimmy Walker. No selective list of name personalities would be complete without Ina Claire who is sure to bob up with a wealth of coolly sophisticated small talk. Kathryn Brush talks just like her novels, and so do Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Norris. Happily, Gertrude Stein doesn't talk anything like her berserk writings. Her exchanges of pleasantries are always sane and understandable.

There there is Jimmy Durante who, though he may give the impression of having sand in his throat, is a surprisingly serious conversationalist. He seldom talks about his achievements unless prodded. Then he opens up.

Finally (and you knew he couldn't be left out) Jimmy Walker is still in the van of infectious greeters. Although he isn't about as much as he used to be, the former boy mayor has no peer in the matter of putting a stranger at ease. His glib rhetoric has made for many happy moments in the lives of thousands who met him briefly and passed on to other ways.

SUSPEND LICENSE

The operators' license of Raymond M. Lillich, Abbotstown, has been suspended for reckless driving it has been announced by the state highway patrol.

FOOTBALL BANQUET

Members of the Gettysburg college football squad and coaching staff will be guests at a dinner sponsored by local fans which will be held Thursday evening, December 10, at Sauble's inn, Taneytown.

INJURED AT SCHOOL

Elmira Slaybaugh, daughter of Professor and Mrs. J. Floyd Slaybaugh, East Middle street, received a deep laceration of the left cheek when she was struck by a piece of glass after an explosion in the chemical laboratory at Gettysburg high school. Fellow classmates rushed Miss Slaybaugh to the office of Dr. R. W. Gifford, Baltimore street, where she received treatment. The accident occurred Thursday afternoon.

Miss Slaybaugh is a member of the senior class.

Furniture on the Square"

Wings for Sally

by BAILEY WOLFE

SYNOPSIS: Dark, handsome Philip Page, returning to his boyhood home, the Warrens, and back to the work of the Warrens mill in the fight for better living conditions. Sally Warren, attractive, thoughtful society editor, loves Terry Maynard, boyish blond aviator, but permits her engagement to break when she learns that Terry in love with her younger sister, Tip, and her willful wedding is in prospect, as Terry must leave for South America. Sally, feeling sorry for herself, is comforted by Philip who has long admired her.

Chapter 23 Wedding Plans

When they had finished and Philip had lighted his pipe he looked at Sally mockingly.

"Your heart's not broken," he reproached. "You were too hungry."

Sally sank deeper into the wicker chair, glad that the dusk made it impossible for him to see her. How long would it be, she wondered, before she could make jokes about her trouble?

"I'm sorry," Philip drew at his pipe for a moment and then continued. "You were fairly content and I've brought the whole thing back to you, haven't I?"

"It was never really gone," said Sally. "Just hiding."

"I suppose it's because I don't really believe in heartbreak," said Philip. "I've seen so much suffering, and I've seen the human spirit undergo such agony, without breaking, that I can't believe it doesn't recover pretty quickly from such a simple malady as unrequited love."

"You've never been in love?"

"A good many times," said Philip coolly. "I suppose you'll say it wasn't real love because I got over it."

"No-o-o. I wouldn't say that. But perhaps you've never felt a love as great as you are capable of feeling."

"Hopelessly romantic Sally!" Philip laughed. "You may be right, but I think you're wrong. What you call love can't play such an important part in my life because I'm too busy with—making a living and doing my bit to reform the system we live under."

He leaned forward and spoke earnestly.

"Don't waste any time feeling sorry for yourself, Sally. Get interested in things that concern so many people that you can lose yourself."

"You think I'm selfish."

"Not exactly. You're like most women—caught in a squirrel cage of trivial things that drive you round and round. Love is a sort of escape to you."

"Thank you very much for the advice," said Sally coldly. "I must go now. I've stayed too long already."

"Now you're angry."

"No," Sally was surprised to find that it was true. "Only, no amount of common sense advice seems to help me right now."

"Of course not," said Philip. "Look here, will you promise to call on me whenever you need someone this next week?"

"I've taken a good deal of your time already."

"Promise?"

"All right. I promise. Although I can't really think of any way you could help, or any reason why you should."

"At any rate, I can feed you," grinned Philip. "That helps."

"It does," agreed Sally. "Thank you, Philip—and goodnight."

Planning Tip's Trousseau

Sally found her own household quiet, with her father and step-mother alone in the living room, talking things over. Sally had been right about the effect of Tip's marriage announcement on the Warren family.

Tip's last escapade had prepared them for almost anything. They were only a little dazed when Tip told them she wanted to be married in a week and go away with Terry Maynard to South America.

"Tip's very young to know her own mind about marriage," said Mr. Warren. "But if she does love this young fellow Maynard, he'll be able to handle her better than we have of late."

"He's enough older than she is to be able to control her," said Mrs. Warren. "But South America—I can't bear the idea of letting her go so far away. If some of us should be taken sick, she'd never be able to get here."

"We must take chances about such things," said Mr. Warren. "There comes a time when we must let young people strike out for themselves, no matter how far away they choose to go. However, nowadays distances are short." He patted Sally's arm affectionately.

"I had thought Sally would be the first one to leave us," he went on. "I had even imagined it was Sally that young Maynard was interested in."

Mrs. Warren darted a glance at Sally. "Tip and Terry are well suited," she said. "Though for the life of me I don't see why she couldn't have fallen in love with young Joe Morris. He's a nice boy, plenty of money, and crazy about her."

"We can't order those things," sighed Mr. Warren. "There's more to this Maynard boy. He's making his own way, without money or family to help him."

"I must call on his people right away," said Mrs. Warren. "I never laid eyes on them. It's scandalous to have your daughter marrying into a family you've never seen."

"They're fine folks," said Sally.

"I've met them. I'll go with you to see them."

"There's something else, too, to be thought of," said Mrs. Warren. "Tip's clothes. We must do something for the child, Sally."

"We'll take a little out of Ray's college fund," promised Sally. "I'll have time to put it back before Ray needs it."

Sally had dreaded the week that must pass before Tip was married, but the time sped by so rapidly that she had almost no time to think of herself. Her job must be done, and along with it there were the thousand and one things to be seen to in order to get Tip ready for the wedding.

Philip Proves Thoughtful

It was decided to have the wedding in the Warrens' garden, a simple wedding it was to be, with only a few friends of the two families present. But preceding the wedding there was a round of entertainment that exhausted everyone but Tip and Terry, who seemed never to tire of excitement. Warren had made a hero of Terry Maynard, and his marriage to Tip promised to put a climax to a romantic career. The little town could not forego such an excuse for feverish entertaining. The two big events of the week, besides the wedding, were the big dance at the Morris home, the night before the ceremony, and the wedding luncheon which Philip Page was giving.

"This luncheon will be my housewarming," said Philip Page, calling at the Warrens. "I was just waiting for an occasion important enough to christen my house."

Turning to Sally, he added, "I wonder if you'd be good enough to check over the plans with Aunt Dora, just to see I haven't made any serious bachelor's errors?"

"I'd like to," said Sally. He was being kind, she thought, and trying to keep her busy so that she would not think too much of herself. She was learning not to be hurt. But sometimes when she saw Tip and Terry together, in the corner of the porch, or the hammock, she remembered with a bitter taste that she and Terry had once sat thus. It seemed to her that she was slipping all too easily into the role of old maid sister to Tip that she had played before Terry began to pay her attention.

The hardest thing she had to bear was Terry's treatment of her. He was really a part of the Warren household now, gay and good-natured about everything. He treated Sally like a sister for whom he had the deepest affection. He meant it, and that hurt worst of all.

The day before the wedding, as Sally was leaving the office, Philip Page stopped her. "May I take you to the party tonight? Mary's parties always overwhelm me with their complete abandon to youth and gaiety. I end the evening feeling like a grandfather."

"And you want a grandmother to totter along beside you?" There was an edge to Sally's tone.

"I seem to remember you as a sort of oasis in that last party," he said. "Very calm and cool." He added seriously, "Mr. Morris has asked me to drop in his study and see him tonight."

"Anything serious?"

"I don't know what's up. I'll tell you about it when I come out—if I come out alive."

"Sounds threatening enough," said Sally. "See you tonight, then."

It was very thoughtful of him to ask her to the party. He probably knew that it would remind her of that other happier evening they had spent at Mary Morris' home in the early days of Sally's engagement.

Sally went home to bathe and dress. This party, she knew, would be an ordeal in which she would literally have to face all her crowd and convince them that she had not been jilted.

Tomorrow Sally and Mary eavesdrop outside the Morris library.

PANTHERS GET ROSE BOWL BID

Pittsburgh and University of Washington Will Clash in Pasadena.

Pasadena, Calif., Dec. 4 (AP).—Pittsburgh was elected Thursday to play the University of Washington in the Rose Bowl football classic New Year's day.

The decision was announced at a dinner by Ray Eckmann, director of athletics at the University of Washington. He said:

"The Huskies and the football committee of the Pasadena tournament of Roses encountered many problems in reaching the decision, and made every effort to do a real job."

The Panthers have come to Pasadena for the annual New Year's Day game on three previous occasions. They lost to Stanford, 7 to 6, in 1928 were defeated by Southern California, 47 to 14, in 1930, and were again beaten by the Trojans in 1933, 35 to 0.

Team Defeated and Tied

In the 1936 season, they reached smashing heights in a 26 to 0 victory over Notre Dame's fighting Irish, and a 19 to 6 triumph over the powerful Cornhuskers of Nebraska. Their record was tarnished to an upset defeat at the hands of Duquesne, 7 to 0, and a tie with Fordham, 0 to 0.

Chairman C. Hal Reynolds and members of the Pasadena football committee expressed themselves as pleased with the selection.

Eckman released this prepared statement:

"We of the University of Washington, speaking for the west in Pasadena's Rose Bowl classic, take extreme pleasure in announcing that the University of Pittsburgh football team has been selected as the opponent for New Year's day, 1937, and has this afternoon accepted the invitation to participate."

Blue Springs, Mo. (AP).—Jay Fleener, owner of a tourist camp here, made Enoch Arden look like a piker.
When Fleener found his wife, to whom he had been wed 20 years, was in love with Jim Phelps, a farm youth, he helped Mrs. Fleener get a divorce, bought a marriage license, paid a minister to marry the couple and gave the newly weds $500.
The bridal pair departed and remained away many months. When they returned, Phelps was without work. So Fleener gave him a job at the camp and provided a cottage as living quarters for the couple.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Were Married in Washington: Eric R. Deardorff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Deardorff, West Middle street, and Ipha Enaier Fisel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Fisel, of near Gettysburg, were married in the Epiphany Lutheran church, Washington, D. C., on Thanksgiving Day, by Rev. Charles F. Steck. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Edwards. Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Kime, Washington.

Mr. Deardorff is borough health officer. He served with the American Expeditionary Forces in France.

Mr. and Mrs. Deardorff spent their honeymoon in Washington and Baltimore and returned home Sunday evening. At present they will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Deardorff.

Stork Kept Busy: The stork has been busy in Gettysburg and Adams county recently for Mr. and Mrs. John Sanders, Chambersburg street, announce the birth of a son while Mr. and Mrs. John Adams, Cumberland township, announce the arrival of a daughter. There was also born to Mr. and Mrs. John Sanders, Straban township, a son.

Microbe of Love Very Infectious: "The Microbe of Love," a colorful musical comedy, presented under the auspices of the Acorn club, captivated a capacity audience at the Lincoln Way theatre, Tuesday evening. The production was well-coached and played, in spite of the fact that less than 10 days were taken for the rehearsals.

The cast of characters follows: Priscilla Prunes, Mary Ramer; Wanda Man, Mazie Krout; Ima Prand, Marie Codori; Sophie Sweetgum, Anna McSherry; Arabella Antique, Lottie Raffensperger; Lovie Long, Helen Pfeffer; Lillie Lone-some, Dorothy Crouse; Smantha Loving, Katherine Bender; Maria Henpeck, Olive Kready; Madam Hyman Cupid, Grace Ramer; Piney Melting Heart, Katherine Hummel-baugh; Tillie Comes, Lilly Dougherty; Evva Ready, Kathryn Musser. Billie Bachelor, Henry Scharf; U. B. Careful, H. P. Belknap; Simon Shy, P. W. Erdman; Very Bold, Ross Sheely; Never Wed, George Scharf; Bobby Bashful, J. J. Doub; Willia Never, Harold Roth; Jeremiah Henpeck, John Doub; Tom Collins, Brady Armor.

Chorus girls: Anna Sefton, Kathryn Reaser, Maybelle Weaver, Ellen Tipton, Madeline Diehl, Ruth Stall-smith, Madeline Roth, Rosella Winslow, Ida Hartley, Madeline Troxell and Old Fashioned Wife, Mrs. P. W. Erdman.

Cupid: Phyllis Erdman, Vera Warfield and Martha Stallsmith.

Dine at Abbottstown: Officers and clerks of the Gettysburg National bank were guests at a chicken and waffle supper at the Altland House, Abbottstown, Thursday evening. Those in the party were I. L. Taylor, Charles Stock, William Kendelhart, Norman Heindel, Reuben Rupp, Ellen Tipton and Norbert McSherry.

Committees Announced: The program committee for the December meeting of the Gettysburg Parent-Teachers' meeting to be held on the ninth has been announced as Guile Lefever, Mrs. H. M. Roth and Miss Laura Spangler. The visiting committee is composed of Mr. J. Price Oyler, Mrs. Ward Stallsmith, Mrs. William Gilbert, Mrs. Charles Hart-zell and Mrs. N. L. Minter.

Gettysburg Man Gets First Deer: Thomas Hummelbaugh, Buford avenue, has the distinction of bringing down the first deer of the 1931 season when at 7:30 Thursday morning hunting with the John Shearer camp in Buchanan Valley, a two pronged buck fell victim to his rifle. The announcement of Mr. Hummel-baugh's kill was closely followed by that of Carey Beamer, hunting with the Arendtsville camp, when at 8 o'clock he brought down an eight-pronged buck at the foot of Big Flat.

Personal: Mrs. John Swisher and Miss Bertha Swisher spent the week-end with William Coshun and family, near Gettysburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Prince, of Baltimore, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Spangler, York street.

Mrs. Charles Culp, Jr., and two children have returned to their home on Baltimore street, after spending a week with Mrs. Culp's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kimple, Buchanan Valley.

Miss Jane Hertzler, of Craigheads, Pennsylvania, has returned home after visiting Miss Rebecca Ziegler, Chambersburg street.

Miss Marguerite Weaver has returned to Collingswood, New Jersey, after spending Thanksgiving with her mother, Mrs. Ella Weaver, West High street.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Keith, Lincoln avenue, announce the birth of twin daughters on Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald P. McPherson, Carlisle street, are spending some time in Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. George Stallsmith and daughter, Ruth, of East Middle street, are spending several days in York.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Shriver, East Middle street, announce the birth of a son.

George Gouker, Two Taverns, is quarantined at his home with diphtheria.

Miss Rebecca Leisher, of Chambersburg, is visiting Mrs. Sara Geiselman, East Middle street.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Rummel, of Harrisburg, are spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Lower.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Bream, of Gardners, announce the birth of a son, December first.

Mrs. Emma Woodward, of Mansfield, New York, and Mrs. Amanda Enoch, of Philadelphia, are visiting at the home of their brother, L. H. Warren, Chambersburg street.

Mrs. Elmer P. Price, of St. Paul, Minnesota, is spending several weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Deardorff, West Middle street.

YORK COUNTY

FARMER FOUND DEAD IN SNOW

York. — County officials have launched an intensive probe into the death of Jacob S. Hake, of near Fishing Creek whose body was found lying along the dirt road between New Bridgeville and Redmont, Wednesday morning about 7:30 o'clock, to determine whether he was a victim of foul play or collapsed from a heart attack and fractured his skull in the fall.

FIRE DESTROYS
STORAGE SHED

York. — Fire of undetermined origin Wednesday night at 8:15 o'clock, destroyed a small warehouse or storage shed of the Keystone Roofing company.

J. A. Feely, of Philadelphia, president of the Keystone Roofing company, stated that he was unable to give an estimate of the damage until after checking over the inventory sheets today. The damage is covered by insurance.

RECEIVES CUTS WHEN
TRAIN HITS CAR

York—Miss Dorothy Krauss, Dover R. D. 1, received a laceration of the forehead, when the automobile in which she was riding was struck by the Frederick-York local freight train of the Pennsylvania railroad, Wednesday night at 7:05 o'clock at the Carlisle avenue crossing. John P. Lawson, Dover R. D. 1, operator of the car, was on his way to the York hospital to take a patient home at the time of the crash.

FRANKLIN COUNTY

HELD ON CHARGE
FOLLOWING CRASH

Waynesboro—Charges of reckless driving will be preferred by Waynesboro police against J. W. Kauffman, 215 Fairview avenue, as the result of a collision shortly after 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon with the automobile operated by Miss Arlene Boudier, Cleveland avenue, a teacher at the Clayton avenue schools. The accident occurred at Broad and Third streets.

CUMBERLAND COUNTY

"WITCH DOCTORS" PATIENT
IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Carlisle—A 7-year-old girl, ill with a nervous disorder, was taken from the care of an alleged "witch doctor" and placed in the Carlisle hospital Wednesday. Emaciated and too weak to stand, the child was brought from her home near Newville by Miss Mary Kelly, secretary of the Carlisle Welfare association, who was compelled to obtain a court order from Judge Fred S. Reese to override objections of the parents against hospital treatment for the girl.

INJURED WHEN STRUCK BY CAR

Carlisle—William Humes, 67, of 44 H street, Carlisle, suffered shock and undetermined injuries of his back, when he was struck by an automobile in the Spring road, near the edge of Carlisle. Harry Bowers, driver of the car which hit Humes, took him to the Carlisle hospital where X-rays are being taken to determine the nature of Humes' injuries.

According to Bowers, his machine was struck by the machine of David Paulus, of near Carlisle, when Bowers halted to pick up the injured man. Humes' condition is not considered serious.

MAKE PLANS FOR IMPROVED ROAD

Carlisle—Plans for improvement of the "middlesroad" between Carlisle and Shippensburg are being completed by engineers of the state highway department. No dates have been set as yet for the opening of bids. The project may be included in the department's federal-aid program for next year.

CITE TOWNSEND
FOR "CONTEMPT"Head of $200-Per-Month Old
Age Pension Plan Named
In Federal Court.

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP).—In a rare procedure, Dr. Francis E. Townsend, author of the $200-a-month old age pension plan, and two aides, were indicted on contempt charges by a federal grand jury for flouting the authority of the House of Representatives.

Storm center of legislative and political controversies for the last two years, the elderly California physician was charged specifically with defying a special House committee investigating his old age pension organization.

Indicted with him were the Rev. Clinton Wunder, of New York, and John B. Kiefer, of Chicago, both of whom were regional directors of the Townsend organization.

Ignored Subpoenas

Six months ago, Townsend created an uproar when he strode angrily from the House committee hearing room and flatly refused to testify further. After being refused permission to read a prepared statement to the committee, the pension advocate called the group "unfair and unfriendly," clapped his straw

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

THE DEFLATION OF YEARS

YOUTH is all inflation—reaching out, castles in the air, rosy dreams—the hoping, and the spreading out time. Nothing seems impossible to youth. Everything seems worth attempting.

To many, however, with the increasing years, comes deflation—a slowing up, a deadening of the energies which made youth so triumphant, and a lack of faith and vision as to the way ahead. So much of life, all about them appears deflated. To such I would say: Experience, hardships, discouragement, loss, human contact, travel, the reading of many books—each brings its own reward in a richer and more vital outlook, from which may be extracted the essence of happiness.

The little town, in which we were born and educated, seemed very big and important when we were so much a part of it but in later life, upon a return to those former scenes, most of that early attractiveness seems to have fled, the inflation of the years having deflated the picture of our early environment.

The body may age, and its energies lessen, but the mind's outlook may never age! Vision is a matter of the heart, and as our conceit and self-importance are deflated by the increasing years, a spiritual vision, warmed in our hearts may be made to grow mellow, enriching every new experience clear to the end of the trail.

The first book that I ever read through was "An Old-Fashioned Girl" by Louisa May Alcott. It so thrilled me that I never thought another book would ever contain its charm. But when I had read "Jane Eyre" and "Les Miserables," I wondered about the thoughts I had after I had finished that first book.

We live and learn that the deflation of the years matters little, as it effects our ideas and opinions. The all important task is to think intelligently as we go along, live simply and act kindly toward all about us—behave, and do useful things.

hat on his head and marched from the room.

Subsequently, both Wunder and Kiefer ignored committee subpoenas ordering them to testify concerning the contributions to the Townsend movement which Representative Bell, democrat, Missouri, chairman of the investigating committee, estimated ran as high as $1,200,000 annually.

Congressional sources could recall no recent instance where indictments had been returned as a result of contempt proceedings originating in the House although there have been several similar cases involving the Senate.

Court officials said Townsend and his aides would be given an opportunity to surrender before warrants are issued for their arrest. Harry L. Underwood, assistant United States attorney, said he believed they would be arraigned before the Christmas holidays. Wunder and Kiefer have agreed to appear, Underwood said, but Townsend's whereabouts were unknown.

The castle of Neuschwanstein in Bavaria was begun in 1869 and completed after 1905.

MAROON SQUAD
BEGINS DRILLSFootball Players and Cast
Members Excused From Drills Until Monday.

Basketball practice for the Gettysburg high school cage squad will start in earnest Monday evening when Coach George Forney will have the members of the football squad report for practice for the first time.

The squad of candidates worked out Thursday evening for the initial drill. Football players and members of the operetta to be staged next week have been excused from practice until Monday.

Three lettermen, Duttera, center; Stock, forward, and Lefever, guard, will form the nucleus for the team. Prominent among those who are expected to make strong bids for the team are: Wright, R. Stanley, Maust, Everhart, Ohler and Martin.

Other members of the squad are:

Insull Pays Greek Beauty
And Retains His Shirtstuds

Chicago, Dec. 4.—Peace between Samuel Insull and his former Greek ally, Mme. Helene Coyim-zoglu, was signed Thursday afternoon, and Mr. Insull keeps his buttons.

The last scene of the classic controversy, in which the Athenian beauty had threatened to sue if satisfaction could not be obtained otherwise, took place in the office of Floyd E. Thompson, attorney for Mr. Insull. Only Mr. Thompson and the lady's attorney, Peter Kourides, were present, although reporters waited outside. It was Mr. Thompson who talked to the press.

"All that need be said," he began, "is that the case is settled. We have agreed to be silent as to the details."

Silence or no silence, however, the reporters, by putting two and two together, were able to reach the conclusion that the settlement was for cash, that the cash amounted to approximately if not exactly $4,500, and that in return for this money Mme. Coyimzoglu agreed to give up all correspondence and other documents upon which she would have relied if she had found it necessary to sue.

For it was in the afternoon that the settlement was announced and it was in the morning that the word reached newspaper offices that Mr. Kourides and his client had decided to accept Mr. Insull's last offer, which had been $4,500.

It Was Compromise

"Was there a compromise?" Mr. Thompson was asked.

"All settlements are compromises," said he.

Less than an hour later Mr. Kourides was headed for a railroad station to train for New York, where his client awaits him.

Mr. Insull said before that he paid her $6,000 in Greece and $1,000 more after his return to Chicago as compensation for all that she did for him while he was a fugitive, such as providing him and his wife with a roof and food, dressing up as a Santa Claus to amuse him on Christmas, arranging for the ship he used in a luckless effort to evade his pursuers.

That makes $7,000. If the present settlement is exactly $4,500, it brings the total up to $11,500.

And Mr. Insull still has his studs, his cuff links and his watch. Mme. Coyimzoglu had demanded "gems" which she said were "worth $40,000." Mr. Insull's counsel said the "gems" were merely shirt studs, cuff links and a watch, and that they were "junk."

WPA EMPLOYEE INDICTED IN CAPITAL FOR THEFT

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP). — The District of Columbia grand jury indicted Herman C. Davis, 34-year-old works progress administration employee, Thursday on a charge of stealing ten electric adding machines from a building where he worked.

Most of the machines have been recovered. Police said Davis took them between June 15 and October 23, lowering the cumbersome devices from a window by means of an electric cord and then carrying them away in taxicabs.

HAY COMES EASY IN TEXAS

Houston, Tex. (AP).—When a Texas gulf farmer wants winter hay he goes to a pasture and mows it. There is never a shortage of the hay, used for winter roughage, on the coastal prairies. The grass grows waist high in pastures that are not overstocked. No seeding or cultivation is required.

GOVERNOR OF VT. ARRESTED

Chief Executive Again Charged With Concealing Theft In Bank Case.

Rutland, Vt., Dec. 4 (AP)—A day of swift developments in the sensational Rutland Marble Savings Bank case saw the state re-arrest Vermont's gray-haired governor, Charles M. Smith, president of the bank, and a weeping judge sentence an old friend and neighbor, Lathrop H. Baldwin, the bank's treasurer.

The lanky 68-year-old state executive stalked alone into municipal court voluntarily to answer a summons for his arrest on a charge of misprison of felony—a charge dismissed two days ago by the county court because it lacked jurisdiction.

Smith sat silently as his counsel waived the reading of the charge, specifically accusing him of concealing a former bank book-keeper's theft. He left after his counsel had entered for him a plea of innocent and had succeeded in cutting in half the $6,000 bail under which he was held when the case was before the county court.

Judge's Voice Chokes
Two hours earlier, in the country court house, Judge John S. Butties, his voice choking with emotion, gave Baldwin a suspended sentence of from six months to a year and fined him $400 for perjury.

The perjury charge, like the charge of misprison against the governor grew out of Bookkeeper John J. Cocklin's alleged thefts of bank funds over a nine-year period. Cocklin was convicted November 23 of embezzling $124,000 from the bank. The state claimed Baldwin issued false statements when the shortage was discovered in 1932.

Judge Butties and his associate judges, Edward E. Burditt and Paul G. Ross, first denied Baldwin's request for a new trial on the ground the jury had been influenced by "passion and prejudice."

Difficult Case To Try
"It was difficult to try this case," declared Judge Butties. "It is even more difficult to impose sentence."

He had long been a friend of Baldwin and Judge Burditt was once Baldwin's neighbor.

10-Year-Old Gettysburg Motor Club of Adams County, With Over 400 Members Serves Autoists Away and at Home

President Henry M. Scharf, in His Report, Tells of Schoolboy Patrol Organization; Local Office Answers 156 Calls in Year; Miss Spangler, Secretary, Helps 1,061 Tourists.

99 COUNTIANS ROUTED LAST SUMMER; P. M. F. TO PROTECT USE OF FUNDS

BY HENRY M. SCHARF
It was just a few weeks more than 10 years ago that the Gettysburg Motor Club of Adams County was organized and it is fitting that at this meeting we celebrate our tenth anniversary of service by telling you, who as members, have maintained a loyal and helpful relationship with your club and have so well supported it and made possible its achievements by your support, its fine record of accomplishments during the past year.

I say without any qualifications whatever, that an AAA motor club is the purest form of service agency that exists. Service is its only purpose. To be ready to serve is its sole reason for existing. Your motor club is no exception and has faithfully, and with perfect satisfaction to all concerned, fulfilled every service requirement made upon it by our own members and affiliated AAA members from all parts of the country.

Your motor club is affiliated with 100 other AAA clubs in the state of Pennsylvania through the Pennsylvania Motor Federation and with over 800 other AAA clubs all over the United States through the American Automobile Association. This means a great deal to you because wherever you are in this state or in this country the same complete, honest and pure service characteristic of your own club are present through these affiliated clubs and they are all at your beck and call to aid you in any one of a score of emergencies in which you may happen to find yourself.

This is true only of AAA clubs. Think of the tremendous organization of motor clubs, service stations, hotels, travel agencies and motor club personnel that is at your service for a small sum of $5.00 per year, your dues in your local club, because of the state and national affiliations that each AAA club has. This national organization—the American Automobile Association—was organized in 1901 when the automobile industry was in its swaddling clothes. For thirty-six years it has progressed and adjusted itself to the increased demands of changing and swift-moving times. It adjusted itself in every required manner but never departed from its cardinal principle of being purely a service institution not operated for profit.

AAA has contributed much to what we describe today as our daily necessities—good automobiles and good highways on which to drive them. Our highway system of today is the outgrowth of the thought, study and recommendations of automobile owners organized under the AAA banner. Today every new development in automobile manufacture, every claim made for an automobile, before it becomes official and accepted must pass the examination and scrutiny of the AAA Testing board. Every automobile race and racing record to become official must have been timed and accepted by the AAA organization. AAA definitely means something. AAA is nothing more than an organization of over 1,000,000 automobile owners and we all can be proud of the fact that through our Gettysburg club we are part of that organization.

Before telling you of the service record of your motor club, I want to say a word about the larger and more general activities that we are engaged in.

One of the chief factors in our strength is the Pennsylvania Motor Federation of which we are a unit along with 100 AAA motor clubs in this state. These clubs have a combined membership of 139,306 members as of November 1st.

We have heard a great deal during the last two sessions of the legislature about proposed increases in tax on gasoline and diversion of motor funds. We have appealed to you often to voice your protest to your representative and your state senator to these procedures. We have fought a hard fight in opposition to such taxes and such diversion of motor funds—all in your behalf.

Through the Pennsylvania Motor Federation our gasoline tax is at least two or three cents per gallon less than what it would be had there been no such pure-service organization to lead opposition to such taxes. Considering the fact that this savings is annually about $20 to $30 a year to the average automobile owner, it is perfectly apparent that there should be no motorist without an AAA membership particularly when in this county the cost is only $5.00. From this one standpoint alone membership produces dividends of from 400% to 600%. Adding the other services available through membership and the return can run as high as 1000%.

The PMF is not a lobbying or a political organization. It does not engage in political activity. The proof of those assertions is the fact that the PMF has the respect of all political authorities for it is thoroughly AAA—a pure service organization not operated for profit. When the PMF speaks or voices the doctrine that the funds from licenses and gasoline taxes should be held inviolate for use in building and maintaining highways it speaks and is heard not as a lobbying organization but as the mouthpiece of 139,306 Pennsylvania automobile owners. The same is true when it protests against increased taxes on gasoline out of every three of our own members required emergency road service during the year 1936. It seems that these figures are effective answers to the skeptic who says that he never gets hung up on the road and therefore never needs our emergency road service.

Let's analyze these road troubles:—In 82 cases the cars had to be towed in. In 10 cases were required which would indicate accidents. 27 had tire troubles and therefore involved women who held full or associate memberships in our club. (Incidentally, you know you can secure an associate membership for your wife or daughter at $3.00 which provides full emergency road service plus tire changes, accident policy and bail bond). Battery and ignition trouble were responsible for 10 more cases. Starters were responsible for 7 service requirements, brakes for 1, stuck in the mud 1. Only one member ran out of gas this year.

It cost the motor club $306.62 to take care of these requirements for emergency road service this year. As to touring information—over one thousand—1061 to be exact—AAA members were given this service free at our office this summer. Counting the mileage given them for only one day's travel from here and it totals 269,258 miles. Actually the total mileage runs into many times that figure but for our own records we consider only the first day's travel.

Ninety-nine of our own members consulted our office and received complete and accurate touring information before leaving on their trips this summer. They were given free of charge the latest road information, all the maps they required, hotel directories and every bit of information they needed to make their trip an enjoyable one and a safe one. These maps saved them several dollars and being forwarded enabled them to save time and mileage which resulted in saving many dollars and days of time.

Travel information is one of AAA's most important services. Let me illustrate the importance of getting your route laid out at our office before you start your trip. Let's assume you have a certain destination to make and the return trip home in a definite number of days. A couple detours of any length at all will throw out your entire schedule and compel you to curtail your trip or cause you to be late in your return to your work or your business. Such delays cost money directly and indirectly. We save you all that plus the element of annoyance, danger and damage to your car.

Miss Spangler, who takes care of our office, is recognized as an expert in travel information. We have hundreds of letters on file in the office thanking the motor club for the routings provided by Miss Spangler. Each week we receive the latest detour information on every state from the AAA office in Washington. She makes a study of that and many of our members are indebted to her ability and thoroughness in this work for maintaining their schedules without annoyance or inconvenience.

Your motor club provides you with a bail bond up to $5,000. This feature of our service enabled two of our members during 1936 to avoid the embarrassment of incarceration until they could raise the amount of bail required. The bail bond is carried with a national company and can be effectively used anywhere in the United States. It is an important service and when considering what can happen to you, we think it one of the most important we offer. You can never tell when, through no fault of your own, you are going to be involved in a serious situation where immediate bond of a large sum of money is required. Assuming you have the means and the connections to raise whatever bond would be required, you may be in a section where you are not known and be held for a number of hours or a day or two before your friends could reach you to post whatever bond is required. With our membership and bail bond service you have $5,000 to post at any time and any where. If you needed it you wouldn't be without it for several times the cost of membership.

Membership includes an accident policy of $500. Each renewal increases this policy until it reaches $750. We have paid several thousand dollars in policy claims for injuries and death in the ten years we have been in existence. Last year we paid but one. It amounted to $11.43 for injuries of two weeks duration. This is another phase of service that is eminently satisfying when you need it.

The proof of the pudding is in the eating. The proof of the success of your motor club, after all, is the manner in which the members accept it. Here we have the most gratifying of all reports to make:

At the beginning of 1936 we had 396 members. As the renewals came due only 17 of 396 failed to renew and these 17 were offset by 35 new members that came in voluntarily or through the recommendation of other members. Keep in mind we have not put on a high-pressure membership drive. We have depended on our service record and it has produced for us.

November is our biggest renewal month. Of 106 members that month 72 have renewed before the 1st of December and the others have the month of December to complete the renewal without losing their increased value in their accident insurance. We are safe in predicting that everyone will renew.

This is a marvelous record and one that we are extremely proud of. We feel we have succeeded when we maintain that high ratio of renewals. Our treasury had a balance of $604.78 at the beginning of the year and we have a balance on December 1st of $366.56. Keep in mind, however, that this meeting is being held early in December instead of early January and we therefore have one month's revenue to come in which will bring our balance at the end of the year to about what we had at the beginning of the year.

This $366 balance is a safety cushion—so to speak. We try to maintain it at all times so as to be able to assume the liability for whatever services we are called upon by our members.

We are operating within our income and have been doing so throughout the depression—in fact, throughout the history of the club. We have ambitions for the future and as the club grows stronger and larger we will offer added services. If and when we can afford it we can increase the emergency road service, we can do local work in the county, increase our school patrols, increase the amount of the accident policy and the bail bond. Whatever we take in is going to be spent in your behalf.

However, the responsibility for the future progress and growth of the club is in your hands. This is your club and those of us who have served you as officers and directors are obliged to work for a living at our own businesses the same as you are. We can not be expected to canvass the county for members. The club is not large enough or wealthy enough to afford a field man. Hence, it is up to each of you to do your part in getting new members.

You can do it if you will. Boost your motor club and talk about it to your non-member neighbors. The more there are of us the more we can do. It will benefit you in the long run and the more we have in this club and the PMF and the AAA the more effective we are in stopping unfavorable taxation and securing better roads.

We are out of the depression now. We have weathered it very successfully. Let each one of us do our bit and secure a new member or two. It is the best buy anyone can make and no automobile owner should be without it. It's worth $5.00 of his money in many different ways—Keep in mind and remember—this is a service institution. We are not selling insurance or offering any cat-in-the-hats. We have only one purpose and that is to serve you and every other motorist in the county. We offer you an unblemished, creditable record of ten years service and on that basis we ask your support and cooperation to make 1937 a banner year and one that will see us well advanced in our membership.—Adv.

UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA STUDENTS CUT CLASSES

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Dec. 4 (AP).—About 4,000 students of the University of Alabama cut 10 o'clock classes Thursday for a demonstration intended to influence Dabney S. Lancaster to remain here as dean of men.

The marching students visited the mansion of President George H. Denny, chanting "We want Lancaster." The students gave "fifteen cheers for Denny and Lancaster."

Dr. Denny, who has been confined to his bed by a cold, hurriedly dressed and went out on the balcony. "We are doing everything in our power to persuade Dean Lancaster to remain at the university, he said."

REBELS BOMB MADRID AGAIN

Government Forces Start New Attacks; Little Damage Is Reported.

Madrid, Dec. 4 (AP).—Fascist warplanes bombed Madrid twice Thursday while opposing infantry forces were locked in battles for possession of the city's western suburbs.

The raiders loosed a score of explosive bombs in the Rosales area and in Retiro Park, hard by government artillery emplacements.

The roar of the exploding bombs mingled with the boom of artillery fire concentrated on the rear guards of the forces battling in the Casa de Campo, along the Manzanares river bank, and in the Moncloa and Pozuelo-Aravaca sectors.

Cause Little Damage
In contrast to three fascist air raids which killed at least fifty-six inhabitants of Madrid the day before, Thursday's bombings did not cause appreciable damage.

Outside Madrid, massed government forces strove to cut the communication lines between the advance units of General Francisco Franco's men and their rear.

The government militia centered their attack on the gentle slopes of the Casa de Campo.

Madrid forces were hard-pressed reliable reports indicating Franco was trying to cut the main high-road into France leading through the northern Madrid suburb of Tetuan de Las Victorias.

Towns Suffer Heavily
Both the towns of Tetuan and Fucarral, still farther to the north, suffered heavily during the last three days of aerial bombardment.

While salvage workers dug at the debris caused by the latest aerial bombings, the government leaders asserted its forces in the north were advancing victoriously on Oviedo, Vinola and Burgos, the seat of the fascist junta.

A war ministry report said seven machine guns and 30,000 cartridges were captured in battles at El Lano and La Mata near San Martin de Gu-rulles in the Grado area.

Civilians Evacuated
The civilian population of Grado was evacuated before the government drive, it was asserted. Reports from Bilbao, Spain, said Basque militiamen, fighting in the service of the Madrid government, encircled Villarreal and were within striking distance of Vitoria, which their planes bombed.

Militia leaders reported back from the front that their columns were threatening Vitoria and Burgos itself. They asserted one enemy column sent from Vitoria was routed in fierce fighting around Isuschiza and Villarreal.

DUTTON HAS THE BUTTONS
Harrisburg, (AP). — Policeman Thomas W. Dutton's badge and button-collecting hobby has amassed 3,700 such trinkets in the past five years.
The collection includes church and Sunday school emblems and political badges dating back to the McKinley-Hobart campaign. Dutton said he does most of his trading with children on his beat.

Women Vigilantes Will Watch Public Officials

Phoenix, Ariz., Dec. 4 (AP).—Five hundred women vigilantes—"asking no odds and giving none"—have sought incorporation to wage secret but relentless warfare against corrupt government and officials.

In filing articles of incorporation, the "Women's investigation committee of 500" disclosed it has been secretly operating for some time and "our influence already has been felt."

"Several men have called up to ask what we are going to do to them," said Alice M. Birdsall, Phoenix attorney, and one of the three directors of the committee. Only the directors will be known publicly. The others will work in secret, taking assignments from and making reports to Miss Birdsall or Louise Moore and Kane Younger, the other directors.

Neglect of Duty
"Neglect of duty and corruption in public officials and their employees, as well as of all matters relating to cause corruption in the body politic, or which encourage vice or crime," will be investigated and the findings brought to light, said the articles of incorporation filed with the State Corporation commission.

Specifically marked for investigation were "habits, conduct and acts of persons connected with government and public offices, city, county, state and federal."

"We had been operating for some time before we decided to incorporate," said Miss Birdsall.

"The need for such an organization is self-evident. Take a look around you at city and county government."

Miss Birdsall refused to elaborate upon the articles of incorporation.

Want No Publicity
"Publicity would defeat our purpose," she said. "We simply have banded together to work for cleaner government. We are asking no odds and giving none."

The articles of incorporation said information would be obtained "through personal continuous investigation and research * * * through any and all channels available of true facts."

A member must pledge to carry out the work of investigation to which she is assigned. Her reports may be disclosed only by unanimous decision of the directors "and only to carry out the purposes for which the association was formed."

The articles of incorporation also indicated the spotlight will be turned on the private lives of candidates for public offices "to prevent the placing in positions of trust, either by election or appointment, of unfit persons."

Einstein Discovers Celestial Wonder New to Astronomy

New York, Dec. 4 (AP).—Prof. Albert Einstein Thursday gave the world another mathematical discovery, a celestial wonder new to astronomy, showing that the space near a star is a magnifying glass.

It seems that one star can, with improved astronomical instruments, be a magnifying glass, or telescope, for better seeing of another, more distant star. The reason, he explains, is the bending of light rays when they pass the sun or any other massive star.

Rays Collect in Space
The rays, he finds, collect in this space as they would in a lens. Then at certain distant points the rays so collected are focussed, like the focus of a spy glass, opera glass or telescope.

Human eyes, at the right point in space, would see this star-focussed image. There are stars suitably lined up, one far behind the other, to be seen in this manner from earth.

But Professor Einstein points out that present optical equipment and present resolving power of telescopes is not sufficient to make these space images visible.

He announces the "lens" effect in Science, official journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

"Some time ago," he writes, "R. W. Mandl paid me a visit and asked me to publish the results of a little calculation, which I had made at his request. This note complies with his wish."

Verified During Eclipse
The star magnifying glasses go back to the world-famous eclipse of the sun in 1919, which was the first verification of Einstein's general theory of relativity.

Stars whose light passed close to the sun during the eclipse were photographed. Six months later, when again in the same position, but with the sun no longer near them, they were rephotographed on the same plates.

The star rays did not fall on the same places in the photographic plates, showing that the rays had been deflected, inward toward the sun, when they passed close to it during the eclipse.

This verified Einstein's prediction. Newton long before had shown that the sun's gravitation would be enough to bend the rays of light.

But Einstein's relativity gave a greater bending, attributed to a curve electro-magnetic space near the sun. This extra bend the eclipse verified.

NO FUTURE FOR VILLAIN, DECLARES VON STROHEIM
New York, Dec. 4.—Eric von Stroheim, the great spy of the silent films, says there's no future in being a villain.

To a new generation that scarcely knows him, the character actor gives this advice: "Don't ever be a duel-scarred, saber-clicking, civil-eyed villain." He explained that he played the part of a foreign spy in his first Hollywood picture and the public grew to hate him like no other player. That was his downfall.

Von Stroheim sailed Wednesday on the Queen Mary to try a comeback in Paris. He will take the lead in a picture called "Marthe Richard." His part? That of a spy.
